You'll have a reason to travel again

Dear Reader,

Welcome to Travel – Literally! I hope that after reading this you might feel inspired to venture to a new place this summer. Even if you travel just around the corner, an adventure is an adventure. There will always be something exciting to learn from a new place, so don't ever hesitate or pass up an opportunity to have a different experience. I, personally, enjoy traveling very much. My family and I have taken awesome road trips up north and down south over the past few years. Thanks to my grandparents, we recently cruised the Mediterranean coast on a ship that took us to several beautiful countries. I plan to continue traveling throughout my life to as many foreign places as I can possibly handle.

Since I love to experience new things and spend time with my family, traveling always brings great joy. We share an interest in history and beautiful architecture, so we are usually able to find attractions that amuse all four of us. New places always offer opportunities for taking pictures until our cameras burst; half the fun comes when it's time to arrange them into an album. I look forward to planning a different trip each summer, and I regret when it comes to an end. I hope you will too, when you get out there and explore!

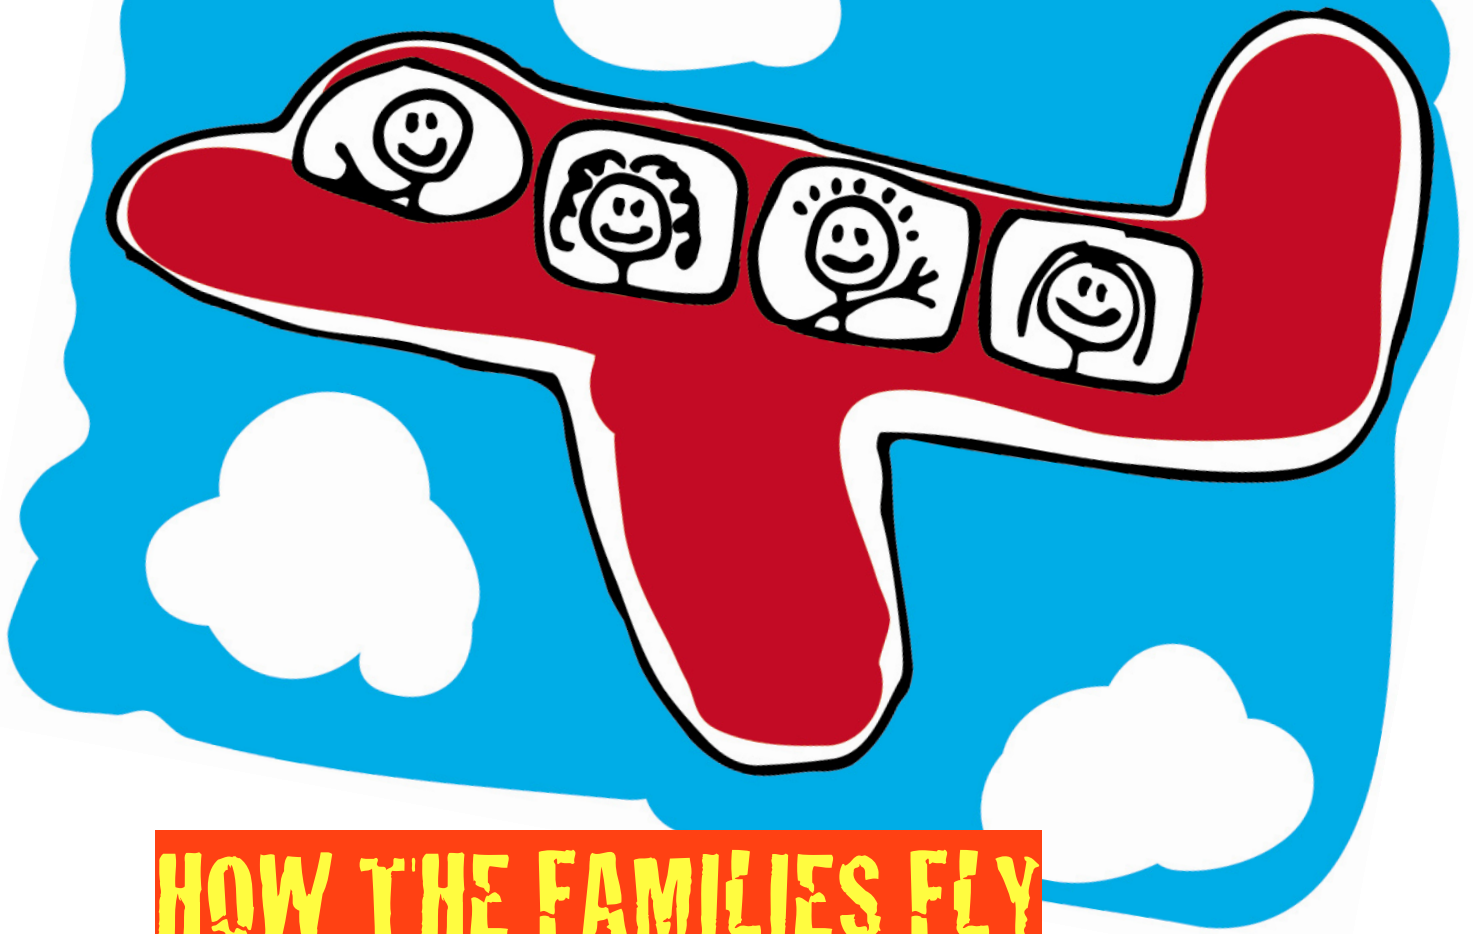

Sincerely,

Clair Cundill

Sonnet

Summer arrives with weeks of sweet freedom,
No more waking up at the crack of dawn.
What thrilling adventures may perhaps come?
Or one may just lie on the fresh green lawn.
But what happens when you run out of days
To explore the world that's right at your feet?
You mustn't wander as if in a daze!
Take in each moment, so precious, so sweet.
A chance to explore is a chance to learn,
So seize each day, and every endeavor.
Travel, if adventure is what you yearn,
For never will you tire of it - not ever.

Nothing but time under the August sun
Brings relaxation, adventure, both fun.

At last, we're back home
With many pictures to sort.
Scrap-booking _ what fun!

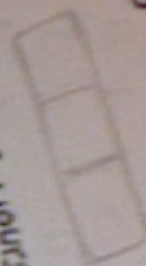

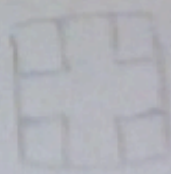

Limerick

I once took a trip lasting many a week,
And returned with a tan, almost fluent in Greek.

I bought some new sandals,
Got scammed by some vandals,
But nothing compares to the moped with a gas leak.

you might prefer a sleigh ride; for that, I'd go to the Alps. Want to get away? If you want heat, I recommend Paraguay. But if the sun makes you run and hide, you must never confine yourself to gravel.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank my parents for encouraging me to try new things, and always planning a memorable road trip each summer. Also, to my grandparents, thank you for the wonderful cruise, which interested me further in world travel and experiencing new places.
